

Some files may open within the frame below and be too small to read. To fix this, open them in a new window or tab. On a PC, hold CTRL and click the link, or use the middle mouse button. On a Mac, hold the [Apple] key and click the link.

Some files when clicked will automatically download to your hard drive, but some may open in the browser as described above. If you want to save these files, you can click the FILE menu in your browser and choose SAVE AS after opening the file. Another option is to right-click the link and choose Save As from there.
